Sales pay and year-1 forecast

Commission-only · First 20 clients · 40% of Credyx fees · Internal · September 2026

No salary. No weekly draw. No guarantee. If you do not close a paying client, you take home $0. The numbers below are a forecast, not a promise.

The deal

You get 40% of what Credyx bills on the first 20 clients you personally close. Credyx bills about 1% of the money the carrier actually collected that month. So your cut is 0.40% of their collected freight.

Example, one client, one month (after the free month):

	Amount
Carrier collected from brokers	$50,000
Credyx bills the carrier (1%)	$500
You take home (40% of $500)	$200
Credyx keeps (to run the back office)	$300

Rules that decide whether you get paid

- Paid only on confirmed collections. An invoice sitting unpaid is $0 for Credyx and $0 for you.
- First month is free for the carrier. You earn $0 on invoices they submit in that window.
- Factored clients pay Credyx 0.70%, not 1%. Your 40% of that is 0.28% of collections — a smaller check.
- Written-off / never-collected invoices: no Credyx fee, no commission.
- After client 20, this 40% deal stops for new logos. What happens next is a separate conversation.
- This forecast assumes you keep 40% on those clients through the end of year 1 while they stay and pay. Year 2 is not promised here.

You do not get a cut of freight. You get a cut of Credyx's fee, after the broker has paid the carrier and Credyx has billed.

What one client is worth

Primary target is 1–8 trucks doing their own billing. Do not plan your year on 15-truck fleets. Those are rare on a cold-call list.

Fleet	Typical monthly collections	Credyx fee (1%)	Your 40% / month	If they stay 11 paying months
1 truck	$20,000	$200	$80	$880
2–3 trucks	$50,000	$500	$200	$2,200
5–6 trucks	$90,000	$900	$360	$3,960
8–10 trucks	$140,000	$1,400	$560	$6,160
Same 2–3 trucks, factored	$50,000	$350 (0.70%)	$140	$1,540

Use $200 / month as your planning unit. That is a 2–3 truck carrier, no factor, after the free month. Most of your first closes will look like this, not the $560 row.

A client who onboards in November is worth one check this year, not $2,200. Timing is the whole game.

What a beginner year actually looks like

Credyx is new. You have no brand, no inbound, no warm list. Cold calls to owner-operators. The first 8–10 weeks you are building pipeline. Budget $0 for months 1–2. That is normal, not a failure.

If you work the caller sheet (80–100 dials a day, Tue–Thu plus callbacks): about 1 paying onboard every 4–6 weeks once you can run the script. Twenty clients in year 1 is a stretch, not the base case. People who treat 20 as "the plan" quit in month 3 when the bank account is still empty.

Assumptions behind the four scenarios

- Average new client: $50,000 / month collected, 1% fee, you get $200 / paying month
- Free month on every new account
- First close no earlier than month 3 (realistic) or month 2 (strong)
- About 1 in 5 clients is gone before month 12 (quit trucking, go back to a factor, stop sending docs)
- Commission hits the month after they start paying Credyx — there is a lag. The tables already bake that in by starting pay the month after onboard.

Scenario	Clients closed in year 1	What it takes	Year-1 take-home
Miss	0–2	Inconsistent dials, or they never leave factoring	$0 – $2,400
Base (plan for this)	6	Daily dials, demos booked, 6 small fleets staggered	~$6,000 – $8,000
Strong	12	Full days on the phone, tight follow-up, a couple of 5-truck accounts	~$10,000 – $14,000
Stretch (the 20-client cap)	20	Almost 2 closes a month after month 2. Unusual for a new brand.	~$18,000 – $24,000

Do not tell yourself "20 clients × $200 × 12 = $48,000." That number is a full book, already ramped, all still paying. You will not have that in month 12 of a from-scratch year.

Base case — month by month

Six clients. First close in month 3, then roughly one every 6 weeks. Mix is all ~$50k / month. One client (the second) churns after 5 paying months.

Month	New clients	Paying clients that month	Your check
1	0	0	$0
2	0	0	$0
3	1 (trial)	0	$0
4	0	1	$200
5	1 (trial)	1	$200
6	1 (trial)	2	$400
7	0	3	$600
8	1 (trial)	3	$600

Month	New clients	Paying clients that month	Your check
9	1 (trial)	3 (one churned)	$600
10	0	4	$800
11	1 (trial)	4	$800
12	0	5	$1,000
Year 1	6 closed	—	$5,200

If two of those six are 5–6 truck fleets ($360 / month instead of $200), year 1 lands closer to $7,500. If two are factored, it lands closer to $4,500. The book you close matters more than the close count.

What "full book" looks like — year 2, if they stay

If you somehow hold 16 of 20 clients at $50k into a second year, and the 40% still applies: 16 × $200 = $3,200 / month, about $38,000 / year. That is a mature portfolio, not year 1. Do not spend it before you have it.

How to get to the base case

The paycheck follows paying clients, not dials. But without volume you will sit on $0.

Activity	Weekly habit that supports 6 clients / year
Dials	80–100 per day, 4 days a week. Below 50/day you will miss.
Demos booked	3–5 real screen-shares a week by month 3
Follow-up	Every lead gets a callback time or it is dead
Who you call	1–8 trucks, no factor, authority 6–24 months old
Who you skip chasing	Happy factored carriers. Low commission, hard close.

One 6-truck client is worth more than two 1-truck owners who disappear. Qualify trucks and "who bills" in the first minute. Do not spend a month babysitting a one-truck maybe.

Read this twice

- Months 1–2 will be $0 if you are doing this from a cold list. If you cannot float that, this deal will break you. That is the honest part of commission-only.
- You get paid after they get paid, then after Credyx bills. A "closed" client who never sends docs is not a client.
- Twenty clients is the cap, not the forecast. Plan your rent on the base case.
- Inflating a close ("they'll start next month") does not create a check. Collections do.
